When Lt. Col. Dick Cole pushed the throttles forward April 18, 1942 to coax the lumbering, indecisive B-25 Mitchell bomber off the rolling deck of the USS Hornet for an audacious raid on Tokyo, he had no conception of space as a warfighting domain. “Cyber” would not be a word for several more decades; drones, GPS and

Board Review Meeting Notes

FY17 funding is required for Construction Management Services from AEDC's Test Operations Support (TOS) Contractor, National Aerospace Solutions (NAS) in FY17. Arnold AFB is primarily a contractor operated base and the Civil Engineer Squadron relies on contractor support to accomplish the day-to-day
